Along with supporting free markets and a noninterventionist foreign policy, Campaign for Liberty champions personal freedom, civil liberties, and the rule of law.

Individual liberty and privacy are central to a free civilization, but are threatened by ambitious executives, activist judges, and unprincipled legislatures. In the name of national security, economic stability, and social engineering, government has eroded our liberties.

The Founders, who faced monumental perils, understood the moral importance of liberty and the need for checks on government power, even during war or crisis. They framed a Bill of Rights that prohibits the federal government from violating the freedom of speech, the press, religion, and assembly; the right to bear arms; freedom from unreasonable search and seizure; and the right of criminal suspects to due process. Unlisted rights are protected by the Ninth Amendment. The Tenth bars the federal government from acting beyond its listed constitutional powers.

Campaign for Liberty defends the Bill of Rights and opposes the Patriot Act, the Military Commissions Act, the Real ID Act, conscription, warrantless surveillance, abuses of habeas corpus, invasions of financial privacy, gun control, the war on drugs, and other measures that violate the Constitution and our individual liberties.
